THE SYRACUSE TROUBLES PRESENTED THEM TO THE BROWNS YESTERDAY.

Disasters Complications Foretold for the Brotherhood—A Base Ball Thunderbolt—Anson's Vain Kick—Von der Ahe Talks—The Scores of Yesterday's Game—Standing of the Clubs—Diamond Notes.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., May 17.—Notwithstanding the severe discipline which President Von der Ahe administered to the ex-champion Browns, their play was not improved to-day, although bad luck had something to do with their defeat. Whitcomb was in the box for St. Louis, and after the second inning his work was that of a veteran, his support was not of the championship order. The following condensed score will give some of the details:

Innings:

Hit-Syance, St. Louis, 0. Errors—Syracuse, 8. St. Louis, 0. Batteries—Keele and Briggs, Syracuse; Hughes and Egan, St. Louis.

By Telegram to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, May 17.—The Brooklyn and Toledo clubs played at Toledo this afternoon in the presence of 750 people at the bat. The game was very close throughout and ended in a tie. The features were Daily's pitching and a triple play by Nicholson, Schiebeck and Warden.

National League.
PHILADELPHIA, Pa., May 17.—For six innings to-day the Philadelphia Phillies were a sure winner of the National League game, but in the seventh the Phillies got Duryea's measure and touched him up for three doubles and a single, which, with a poor throw by Miller, resulted in a four-run inning and the game. Victory was rightfully theirs, sending ten men to first on hits and making five wild pitches. The Reds had been able to do little bit of hitting in either of the first three innings they had won in a walk. Beach, Mullane and Kelly put up a rattling good fielding game. In catching McGee, who had pitched for the Phillies, Duryea split a finger and retired in favor of Schriver. The score:

intends to play Sweeney at second, and will get a good man in Hartnett's place. Until that man is secured Kane will cover the infield. Kane, Hartnett, Mr. Von der Ahe writes, was a sad disappointment. He showed up as a failure, and after joining the Adonis at Columbus he played in a similar manner. Capt. A Base-Ball Thunderbolt.
By Telegram to the Post-Dispatch.

PHILADELPHIA, May 17.—According to a Harbinger dispatch to this morning's Press, Judge Simon holds a new baseball team, the Harbinger, to the professionals in this State. The Judge yesterday heard arguments on the application for an injunction to restrain F. U. Keane, formerly of the Cuban Giants, from playing with any organization except the Harbinger Base Ball Association. Incidentally he expressed a doubt as to the right of many clubs under their charters to play professional base ball for profit. He said the intent of the law was mutual benefit and sport for the membership of such clubs, and that the action of the Assembly had been perverted. He was strongly opposed to all kinds of professional baseball playing. According to his view it is a doubtful if most of the contracts of players are binding.

A HORRIBLE DISCOVERY.
Hogs sold in Chicago that have fed on putrefying carcasses.

By Telegram to the Post-Dispatch.
CHICAGO, Ill., May 17.—H. M. Jordan of this city, who recently returned from a trip through Iowa, tells a startling story of how hogs are penned along the Chicago & Rock Island Railroad. In one place he saw a hog tearing to pieces the carcass of a dead mule. Inquiry developed the fact that all refuse and dead animals in the village are dumped into the shipping pens to be eaten by the hogs. In one place the bones of the dead animals were seen to be scattered all over the place called Anita," said Mr. Jordan, "the stench coming from the pens was simply overwhelming, and the carcasses of the hogs to get at the dead objects so revolting that I was made sick. All these hogs, as you told, are shipped to Chicago." He said Commissioner Wickham, when informed of the matter said it was an old story. His department is helpless to protect the people through interference of the State. "Hogs are undoubtedly the cause of the disease," he said, "but cholera may be spread in this manner. Where there is no bad effects from such things it is because the dead animals are not diseased. The practice is a common one."

Was It Disappointed Ambition?
By Telegram to the Post-Dispatch.
BALTIMORE, Md., May 17.—Some surprise was caused to-day by the announcement that Emmons Blaine had resigned his position as assistant to President Davis of the West Virginia Central. The resignation is attributed to the influence of his wife, who is contented neither with the smallness of Blaine's position nor with her own experience in society. She tried to buy the Shaw interest in the West Virginia Central, so that Emmons might be a man of more importance in the road, but she failed. She wanted too big a price for his stock. It also said that Mrs. Blaine expected that her health and her husband's name would secure for her the leadership of society, but here she was again disappointed.

POLITICS IN ILLINOIS.

THE CONTEST FOR THE STATE TREASURY-SHIP GROWS INTERESTING.

Some of the Prominent Candidates and Their Chances—Judicial Clerkships—Congressional Campaigns—The Governor's District—The Popular Senatorial Idea—Jacksonville Blind Asylum Management—Political and General News.

By Telegram to the Post-Dispatch.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., May 17.—The contest over the office of State Treasurer, so far as the Democracy is concerned, will be between William Fitzgerald of Cook County and Mr. Edward S. Wilson of Olney. If Fitzgerald can secure the unopposed vote of Cook County, he will be nominated, but this is not at all probable as a bitter fight is now being waged against him. Mr. Wilson's candidacy is being urged by the farmers and he is very prominent in that class of citizens, and he comes from a section of the State where the farmers are already pretty thoroughly organized. Mr. P. O. Face of Washington County and ex-United States Marshal Weber of St. Clair are also candidates, but as yet neither of them have developed a great amount of strength in the central and northern part of the State.

A REPUBLICAN WANTS IT.

Jonathan Willis of Massac County has entered the race for the Republican nomination for State Treasurer and is informing his friends by letter in various parts of the State. Col. Willis is an old-timer in Egypt, and for thirteen consecutive years held the position of Collector of Internal Revenue in the Cairo District. When President Cleveland was "turning the rascals out," so to speak, Col. Willis' head fell in the basket and fell hard. But he let loose just the same. When Private Joe was gathering up his fellows to fill State places, Col. Willis wanted to be a Railroad and Warehouse Commissioner, but Preacher Crim got the place. Nothing daunted, Col. Willis then slumbered quietly in his solitary Egyptian wigwam with one eye open and upon the main chance. The coveted main chance seemed to appear when Mr. Willis was appointed Penitentiary Agent at Chicago, which necessarily caused a vacancy in the Board of Commissioners of the Chicago Penitentiary. Every body for a time supposed that the chances of getting the place lay between him and Rose, but Rose was the true nature of the matter. The fact that Rose was an anti-farmer man previous to the holding of the convention, while Col. Willis was a genuine farmer, and all this time the Colonel has been County Judge of Massac County, but the ill-will that always blew something of a breeze against him, has been again "turned the rascals out," and he is now in the primary in Massac County to get a re-nomination for County Judge.

The fight that has been raging over the clerkships in the Southern Judicial District between Messrs. Burton and Nicholson for Supreme Clerk and Messrs. Burton and Nicholson for Appellate Clerk, is looked upon with wonder here at the Capitol. In this, the Central District, Hon. E. A. Sullivan, the present incumbent, will be re-nominated by the Democrats, and little or no opposition by the Republicans, and the same is true of Mr. George W. Jones, Clerk of the Appellate Court. It is true that each of these gentlemen have held the respective offices for two terms, but it seems to be generally conceded by all parties that they may hold them as long as they live. The people in the central part of the State seem to understand that no one but the court and the lawyers have anything to do with these offices, and who is to quarrel with the people seem to favor unanimously, and not a lawyer has been able to get a word in edgewise. There are some offices where the best system of rotation is to keep a good man when once secured, and this is what the people in the central part of the State think about Sullivan and Jones.

POLITICS IN THE FIFTEENTH DISTRICT.

In the Fifteenth Congressional District of this State there is about the same condition of affairs that exists in the Nineteenth, meaning that the farmers, through their respective organizations, hold the balance of power. The district is Republican by 2,000, though Congressmen Cannon and Sully are Democrats to get 600. This year the Democrats have conceded to the farmers the nomination of Representative. The nominees are Edgar, Coles, Douglas, Cumberland, Platt and Champagne; and the nominees of the Congressmen are Danville. At Danville was held a conference of representatives of the farmers from every county in the district, at which it was agreed that no lawyer or professional politician should be nominated for the Legislature or Congress. The farmer gave character and standing to this agreement. Gen. John Charles Black of Chicago was present, and he was a member of the district and no eligible Democrat; the nearest approach to an available man being James S. Eads of the Missouri Pacific. Eads is a retired lawyer, Mr. Eads has been a receiver for three railway corporations in the district and has discharged his duties creditably.

THE FARMERS WILL TAKE A HAND.

In the Fifth Judicial Circuit, the campaign for three judges to be elected next June is already in progress. The farmers are largely Republican, having three of that party on the bench to-day. The farmers also propose to take a hand in the judicial election; they don't like Judge Smith of Champaign nor Judge Smith of Cole, but seem to be very well pleased with Judge Will of Macou. It is their intention to vote for either Thomas J. Golden of Clark County, Joseph H. Mann of Danville or John H. Mann of Macou. The Democrats and one Republican. If the farmers' ambitions for judicial reform are to be met, they may succeed next year.

THE REPUBLICANS TAKE PART.

The confirmed Democrats of the Democratic party to allow the people to nominate a United States Senator so impregnated the rank and file of the Republicans with the patriotic viva voce system, that in the Fifteenth District it has assumed violent proportions. Asa Baker of Paris, H. Jewell of Danville, N. W. Matthews of Urbana, Henry Crocker of Cairo, J. W. Scott of Mattoon, Dan Wright of Homer, W. E. Clark of Hoopeston and others will come to the next Republican State Convention demanding similar action, and it is more than possible that a majority of the Fifteenth District delegates will be either for Oglesby or McNulty for Senator, because it must be an ex-soldier and an orator to hold his own against the people's choice, John M. Palmer.

THE MIDDLE AT THE INSTITUTION.

The middle at the State Institution for the Education of the Blind at Jacksonville, caused by alleged bad treatment of the pupils by young Phillips, who succeeded his father in the management, has resulted in a determination by the trustees to remove him. It is further understood that the place is to be filled by the appointment of Prof. Hall of Aurora, and now the trustees are busy with the case are raising mad, and charge that in 1887 Hall was the Superintendent of the Jacksonville party for Superintendent of Public Institution and that since then he failed in an effort to get the Democratic success in the management of the school. It is natural that they should draw to have an honest Democratic success in the management of the school.

ILLINOIS WHEAT.

There is much uneasiness among the farmers in this and adjoining counties in regard to the prospect of a heavy rain, which would be a great loss to the crop. The wheat is coming in from different places, but the latest statement is to the amount of the wheat, and the wheat is in a state of distress.

largest and best farmers in Sangamon County, and who has been credited with having the best prospect for a wheat yield in this vicinity. An examination shows that every stalk of the sample is clean and clear. The stalks are about two feet high and the heads thoroughly formed. Mr. Storey now thinks he will not raise as much as the seed on his entire farm. Similar reports are coming from the parts of this and adjoining counties. The late wet weather has kept the stalks full of sap, but it is the general belief that when the warm days come, the work of the fly will appear and that much of the wheat will turn yellow and wilt. It is now estimated that there will not be more than 35 per cent of a crop yield in this vicinity. One well posted gentleman says he is satisfied that the condition of wheat in Illinois is 15 to 20 per cent worse than the judges from the late official reports. He has letters from Kansas that say the wheat there is suffering severely from drought and high winds. Altogether he regards the situation in Illinois as very serious.

WHAT AN INDIAN CAN STAND.

The Heroic Treatment Used With a Half-Frozen Red Man.

From the Detroit Free Press.

To show what an Indian can stand when he has to, I may tell of an incident which happened during the winter I was with them. Toward evening on a very cold winter day, when it was snowing just a little and drifting a great deal, an Indian came to the log house with a jug full of whiskey and with him a rifle. I imagine the jug had been entirely full of whiskey when he started, and by the time he got to the house he was in rather a jolly condition. The jug and the rifle were taken away from him, and he was ordered to get to his square at the house and said he had not come home that night and, as the night was very cold, he had been anxious about his blankets and dragged him down to the creek, where a deep hole was cut in the ice for the purpose of watering the cattle. Laying the Indian out on the snow, she took the pan that was beside the fire hole, and, filling it, repeatedly dashed the painful splash of ice water over the body of the Indian. By the time the other unsuccessful searches had returned she had her old man thawed out and seated by the fire wrapped up in blankets. There is no question that if he had been found by the others and taken into the house frozen as he was he would have died.

THE SISTER'S FAILURE.

Liabilities $1,636,724.42—Crooked Features of the Collapse.

By Telegram to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, May 17.—The long-delayed schedules of W. H. M. Slaters and Harold Clemens, composing the banking firm of Geo. K. Slaters & Sons, which failed about six weeks ago, were filed to-day by Lawyer Henry J. Davidson, Jr., at their residence. They show the liabilities of the firm to be $1,636,724.42, the nominal assets $2,241,700, and the actual assets $2,241,700. At the time of the failure was stated by the members of the firm that the liabilities would not amount to more than $200,000. The firm, up to the past year, had been regarded as one of the most solid business houses in Wall street. Rumors that it had engaged in several wildcat enterprises, however, had of late affected its credit. The collapse was alleged to have been caused by the embezzlement of $40,000 by Douglas Elliger, the partner in charge of the firm's real estate department, who died about a week before the failure was announced. Within the past week the fact had been made public that the members of the firm in this city had been misappropriating bonds and securities deposited with them by customers, and two suits, involving $22,000, have been brought against them by W. H. M. Slaters and Harold Clemens, the other partner, has left the city and has not been seen for two weeks.

THE BIG MAY FESTIVAL.

ARRANGEMENTS FOR THE SUNDAY-SCHOOL PICNIC THIS MONTH.

An Enormous Crowd Anticipated—A Chorus of Ten Thousand Voices to Ring in the Fair Grounds Amphitheater—The Down-Town Parade—Programme for the Day—Other Religious News.

THE parties in charge of the annual Sunday-school festival are bending every energy to make it the greatest yet held here. Those who are familiar with the first and second festivals need not be told that these annual gatherings are exceeded in number in no other city in the Union. It is stated by parties who claim to know that more children and Sunday-school workers are assembled on the occasion of this annual festival than are assembled anywhere for like purposes. This year promises to be the largest and best of all. The committee has introduced a new feature in the DOWN-TOWN PARADE to take place Saturday morning, May 18. It starts from Twelfth street, moves down Olive to Fourth, from Fourth to Market, from Market to Broadway, from Broadway to Washington avenue, and from Washington avenue to Ninth street, where the procession will disband, and the several divisions will proceed to different car lines, thence to the grounds. Free transportation will be furnished by the committee to all who participate in the parade.

THE PARADE.

This promises to be a very interesting feature, as it will show down-town business men the strength of the Sunday-schools lying in the heart of the city east of Twelfth street. The parade will be preceded by a band of forty pieces and several military companies from different Sunday-schools, headed by their drum corps. ON THE GROUND New features have been added for this year's festival, such as Kindergarten exercises, in which 600 Kindergarten children will participate. A panorama, "Missionary Nations," representing twelve nations to which missionaries are sent; a chorus of 10,000, which will be held this year in the amphitheater instead of the old place, besides the ever popular day fireworks and broom drill. President McKelvie has sent out the following letter to superintendents and principals of Sunday-schools in the city and adjacent places, most cordially invited to participate in the May festival:

ST. LOUIS, May 17, 1890.

DEAR BROTHERS:—We desire the co-operation of all Sunday-school superintendents, teachers and friends of the schools of St. Louis, to make this festival a great success. If the united efforts of all the schools of the city can be secured, no doubt but that this will be the greatest gathering of Sunday-school workers and pupils ever held.

Everything that can be done by the Executive Committee has been taken hold of with vigor and it is now necessary that friends of the Sunday-school cause give it their hearty co-operation and that they use their influence to procure a large attendance on Saturday, May 18.

The rehearsals have been in progress for the past ten days and our chorist reports that over three thousand names are already on the list with the ability of more than doubling the number during the coming week. It is confidently believed that the chorus will reach 10,000. The music and song sheets for Sunday schools and for rehearsals can be had free on application to Robert Rutledge, 720 Pine street, and it is the earnest request of the committee that all schools, whether they are members of the union or not, provide themselves with this music.

The tickets for admission of pupils to the grounds will be supplied by Mr. Rutledge on application and every superintendent is urged to procure tickets before next Sunday, as they may be placed on sale in their several schools.

The price of admission is but 5 cents for those under 12 years of age and 10 cents for all over that age. The tickets will be valid for the entire day and their friends will avail themselves of the privilege of meeting with them.

Booths for headquarters will be assigned, and badges will be furnished free to all purchasers of tickets.

PROVINCIAL PROGRAMME:

9 o'clock—Parade of the Sunday schools in the down-town districts only—Assemble at Twelfth and Olive, down Olive to Fourth, Fourth to Market, Market to Broadway, Broadway to Washington avenue, Washington avenue to seventh, eighth and ninth, to street cars.

Parade preceded by Prof. Bafano's band of forty pieces and the several military companies connected with the Sunday schools of the city. Zouaves, Kalbats of Hope and drum corps, etc.

The committee will pay the transportation to the grounds of all who participate in the parade.

10 o'clock—Opening Exercises—Song, "Auld Lang Syne," by Rev. Dr. Stinson; address, Rev. Dr. Stinson; song, "The Church of the Living God," by Rev. Dr. Stinson.

11 o'clock—Address by Rev. Dr. Stinson.

12 o'clock—Second song service. Grand chorus in amphitheater followed by display of fireworks.

4 o'clock—Address.

Closing with grand bicycle parade. All parties coming on bicycles will be admitted free.

W. H. MCKELVIE, President.

MAY FESTIVAL NOTES.

The Sunday-school superintendents are urged to procure their tickets and have booths assigned for the festival at the earliest date.

Sunday-schools at Edwardsville, Lebanon and Santos, Ill., and Washington, Pa., and Troy, Mo., have been in correspondence with the committee in regard to raising a excursion from their cities to St. Louis on May festival day. All outside schools will be admitted to all the privileges of the festival at the same rate charged the city schools. Robert Rutledge, Chairman of the Printing Committee, has a full supply of music and song sheets for the May festival, which he will be glad to furnish to all who desire them. Tickets will be sold to the schools at 5 cents for all under 12 and 10 cents for all over that age. These tickets must be paid for in advance. The singing and all the exercises will take place in the amphitheater this year, and the contact has been left for seating in that part of the parade. They report that the chorus.

The regular monthly meeting of the Sunday-school Superintendents' Union will be held at the Mercantile Club to-morrow evening. The subject for discussion will be "Model Programme for Sunday-Schools," led by A. F. Mason.

The grand parade of the schools east of Twelfth street promises to be a very interesting feature. There will be also a parade of all the schools in the First and Second Districts in the northern portion of the city.

The chorus rehearsal under the chair of E. F. Lindsay are booming; nearly 5,000 members have been enrolled, with the prospect of doubling the number next week.

All uniformed companies connected with Sunday-schools in the city are requested to participate in the parade. They report that the day fireworks promise to be exceedingly interesting. Several new and startling features have been added this year and a surprise is promised.

ATTEMPTED SUICIDE.

James H. McClure of Cairo Makes an Effort to End His Life.

By Telegram to the Post-Dispatch.

CAIRO, Ill., May 17.—This community was startled last night at 10:30 o'clock by an attempt at suicide made by James H. McClure, for many years assistant ticket agent of the Illinois Central Railroad here. He had been sick during the day with fever and had been much worried over a note of $150, which fell due yesterday at the Alexander County National Bank. At the hour named he left the house, bidding his wife and children good-night and saying he was going to the O. & N. He had cut three rugged scratches across his left wrist with a pocket-knife, and had lost so much blood that his pulse had nearly ceased to beat, but this evening he is in a fair way to recover, though still delirious.

KING OF THE ROCKIES.

PREPARATIONS FOR A GRAND CARNIVAL AT OGDEN, UTAH.

An Invitation Extended to St. Louis Ladies to Officiate as Maids of Honor to the Queen of the Carnival—Scenes From Ivanhoe to Be Enacted—The Tournament and Procession.

THE carnival to be given at Ogden, Utah, by the Monte Cristo of the Rocky Mountain states, commencing on June 30 and lasting until the evening of July 5, promises to be one of the grandest affairs of the kind ever given in the country. All the cities and towns of the West are expected to send large delegations. And it is more than probable that the people of Ogden are much interested in the carnival, as it is by no means unlikely that the Queen of the Carnival may be found among the ladies of St. Louis. The Bright Bulletin.

The following marriage licenses were granted yesterday afternoon:

Rocky Mountains will take an active part in the management. The festivities will be modeled after those of Mardi Gras, but as they will last much longer many novel features will be introduced. The celebration will be inaugurated by the Rex Order of New Orleans, and the ceremonies will be opened by leading members of that order. The most original feature of the festivities will be a tournament, and the description of the gentle passage of arms at Ashley de la Zouche, which will be the first of the events to be followed. Artists are already at work on the costumes and armor, drawings and models of the various tournaments, and the reproduction of the Wahsatch an exact reproduction of the scenes of the medieval tournaments. The costumes will be made of the finest materials that instead of tilting at each other the knights will tilt at a ring. A queen of the carnival will be crowned, and the most beautiful maid of honor from all the large cities of the West will be chosen. There will be competitive drills, riding and shooting matches, two carnival processions, and three parades, the last of which will be a parade constructed especially for the purpose. The King

Oak Hill Place

"WHAT IS IT?"
Well, it's just what you're looking for—a perfect spot for a home, or investment for the shrewd man that's got his weather eye on the tremendous possibilities of real estate in the southwestern part of the city.

"AND WHERE IS IT?"
Just near enough not to be too far. No busy man can afford to waste time to his business, especially as an hour isn't near as long as it used to be. Place takes him away—and far above, as this side is much above the noise from the town's heat, and buzz, and atmosphere, and smoke—and smells.

"EASY TO GET TO?"
Fifteen minutes in the steam cars from Union Depot to Oak Hill Depot, 4½ cents to pay; four or five street car lines, to be changed into cable cars; in fact, one of the most reachable of the city's suburbs.

"GOOD NEIGHBORHOOD?"
Ah, we should say. Sets right in the midst of the garden spot of Mission Garden and Tower Grove for an evening stroll; surrounded by boulevards by electricity, city water, sewerage—country life with all city conveniences.

"CHEAP?"
Sold on the best terms you ever heard. Come and see us about that. 15,000 feet we can sell in blocks of 1,000 feet for $10 per foot. Gets higher as you go.

"WILL IT PAY?"
It is paying. People who bought a month ago can sell to-day for well, say how much advance, for fear you might think we were exaggerating, glad to have a chat with you about it, and show this beautiful place.

Yours, very truly,
HAMMETT-ANDERSON-W

 give you a true account of the affair. I saw and he would not be here now. He is a great fighter, but not a champion of America. He is wise in resolution to get out of business.

Some of the Pedagogues Who Have Made St. Louis Schools Famous.

Short Biographies of the Women Who Devote Their Time and Their Energies to Making Noble Men and Women of the Youth of St. Louis—School Records Which No City in the Country Can Surpass—Home Life of the Teachers—The Manner in Which They Fitted Themselves for Their Arduous Callings—Some Interesting Stories of the Lives of a Most Honored Class in the Community.

The SUNDAY POST-DISPATCH continues to-day the biographies of leading lady teachers in the schools of St. Louis, the first chapter of which was printed last Sunday. The article is replete with interest and instruction. It contains matter which will interest and benefit every pupil, every parent, every teacher, every citizen of St. Louis.

MRS. ELLA M. BROCKMAN of the Clinton School, daughter of the late Wm. McDowell of this city, and widow of the late Mr. Brockman, was born in St. Louis on Broadway, when that most prominent business street was the fashionable residence portion. The child was exceedingly bright and entered early the public school, where she received her education, doing excellent work and graduating with much distinction under its difficult regime. After her husband's death she devoted her time to her own education and her little daughter. Having passed the examinations necessary for the ready reception of a position, she has occupied good positions always in the different schools, and is now first assistant of the Clinton School, where her services are deemed invaluable. She has original methods of teaching which have been highly appreciated by the principal. She believes in not enforcing obedience by harshness or severity, and thinks more of gentle persuasion and kindness and gentle sympathy than any other measure, however efficient. Mrs. Brockman is one of the finest educationists in the city, and is a sister of Prof. Edward L. McDowell, the popular educationist. Her little daughter has also inherited her mother's intellect. She is a most successful record in her school, and is a medium height, with a graceful willowy figure and a face which is a perfect type of beauty. Her mother, Mrs. Brockman, is a very successful record in her school, and is a medium height, with a graceful willowy figure and a face which is a perfect type of beauty. Her mother, Mrs. Brockman, is a very successful record in her school, and is a medium height, with a graceful willowy figure and a face which is a perfect type of beauty.

rendering the little lady a most interesting American specimen of ambition and womanhood combined. She dresses well and is seen by the SUNDAY POST-DISPATCH representative, a stylish gown of golden brown cloth, prettily trimmed with plaid in the skirt. The home of Miss Weber is 4322 Pleasant avenue, and in this fashionable locality the gifted young teacher's home has the most pleasant surroundings, the interior being replete with the charms of refined and

She is proficient in music and elocution, being a talented pianist, speaking German with the same dexterity with which she does English. In appearance she is a typical bright, pretty American girl. She is very girlish in personality. She has the delicate complexion which clear white gives place only to coral on the pouting full mouth and sends a glow of rose on the rounded, dimpled cheeks. Her

When my name appeared among the candidates for the popular young teacher election, I thought the teachers cannot be too grateful for the SUNDAY POST-DISPATCH. Miss Gerke is a prominent and popular member of the Germania Club and took part in the well-known play, "Our Boys." She has also appeared with success in many amateur dramatic entertainments. At one of the fancy dress balls of that club she appeared recently as a "Violet," creating much admiration by

THE UNIVERSAL ASSOCIATION BANK & TRUST CO.

A Heavy Capital—The Peculiar Character Secured by the Company in the State of Kentucky—Something About the Objects of the Concerns.

New York, May 17.—The Universal Association Bank & Trust Co. will begin its operations in this city before the summer ends. The preliminary details have been completed for the establishment of a great financial enterprise upon a wholly new system, and little remains to be done excepting to carry out the plans. Officers have been elected, capital subscribed and applications for the incorporation of not less than $100,000 in bonds have already come up for consideration. When Col. Geo. W. C. Lippincott's scheme of a universal bank and trust company, with a capital of $100,000,000, was originally unfolded it created a great sensation in the financial world.

Since then the gentlemen interested in the enterprise have been working at it steadily, and while the organization has been effected upon the broad lines originally traced, it differs in many essential particulars from the first plans. It was not deemed advisable to purchase the charter of a trust company already in existence, as was proposed. To avoid the notoriety incident to obtaining a new charter in this state the organization was effected in Kentucky, where they applied to the Legislature for the incorporation of the American Bank Trust & Guarantee Co. It was specified by the charter that the directors should have power to change the name at their pleasure, and one of their first official acts was to take advantage of this privilege. The capital stock of the American company was fixed at $50,000 in cash, but the clause was inserted that the Board of Directors should have the power to increase this capital from time to time and to such an extent as they might deem best for the interests of the company. The only formality necessary for the increase of the capital was to file a certificate under seal of the company with the Kentucky Secretary of State.

THE CHARTER. This charter is said by some of the gentlemen interested to be the only one of its kind in the United States and to be extraordinary in the special privileges it gives. It provides that in addition to the ordinary shares of capital stock the directors may issue from time to time, to an extent not to exceed one-fifth of the number of ordinary shares, certificates to be known as "founders' shares," which will have no designated value and shall form part of the capital stock. These "founders' shares" may be issued for such purposes as the directors may deem proper. A portion of the annual profits may be paid in these shares, but no dividend can be paid upon them until they have been sold. The paid-up shares on the ordinary stock. This system of "founders' shares" has been very popular in Europe, and it is believed that it will be introduced in this country at an early date. The most liberal section of this charter is one providing that stockholders shall be liable to the company's creditors only to the extent of any unpaid subscriptions they may have made, and that their private property shall not otherwise be liable for the payment of the company's debts. The great object of the company is to open a comprehensive system of business, and it is believed that it will be able to develop to enormous proportions. It intends to guarantee the interest on railway bonds, and to guarantee the interest on bonds of construction it usually has to sell its bonds at a low price, and to guarantee the interest on bonds of construction it usually has to sell its bonds at a low price, and to guarantee the interest on bonds of construction it usually has to sell its bonds at a low price.

MAKING OF PORCELAIN.

HOW THE MOST BEAUTIFUL AND FINEST OF CHINA IS MANUFACTURED.

What Was a Great Secret Once Now Open to All—Wonderful Work of the Royal Porcelain Factory of Berlin—History of a Place From the Clay to the Completed Article—The Workmen and the Process—History of Porcelain.

(Written for the SUNDAY POST-DISPATCH.)

IN days gone by there was scarcely an article of manufacture of which was surrounded and shrouded with more mystery than that of porcelain, while to-day there is nothing which is imparted with greater willingness to those who are interested than everything which pertains to the constant improvement and perfection of the porcelain manufacture—at least this can be said of the Royal Porcelain Factory of Berlin. It is the purpose of this large and extensive factory not only to make standard wares in the commercial and artistic line, but it aims in particular to point out to private industries of this character the ways and means which have to be employed to achieve perfect success.

The principal characteristic of this royal institution is, that it does not strive to vie with other porcelain factories for the sake of "competition," by keeping its materials and processes a secret; but it has, so to speak, assumed the role of an instructor and mentor for private industries. Its abundant financial means and the important scientific and technical forces which it commands have placed it in position to endeavor not only to achieve continuously new and surprising results, but also to make public without compensation to private factories the result of its discoveries and inventions. An essential feature of the Royal Porcelain Factory is its chemico-technical laboratory or experimental department, under the efficient leadership of Prof. Dr. Seger. In this laboratory, as well as in every other department of the extensive establishment, scientific researches are constantly in progress, technical and artistic tests are daily made and their results are immediately communicated in pamphlet form to the competing factories without compensation of any kind, and frequently without even application on their part. In this way the royal institution does not injure private industry, but is extravely useful to them, because it furnishes them indirectly with the means for such tests that would be too expensive for them to undertake.

It will state here one of many hundred cases, which will illustrate the subject plainly and thoroughly. Some time ago the problem was to be solved how to make simple articles of every day use, but of unusual dimensions, i. e., how to overcome the difficulty of the incalculable waste in burning a large porcelain bath-tub, which was to be made out of one piece. The Royal Porcelain Factory of Berlin made continuous trials in this direction, and succeeded at last in making such a bath-tub, which answers all claims to perfection. The simple fact that $5,000 was spent upon these experiments besides a long space of time will make it unnecessary for me to add that the private factory is in position to risk such an outlay of money and time in the furtherance of its business. Nor is it intended that these tests in this direction should stop here.

THE PORCELAIN manufacture originated in Meissen. At the time the Berlin manufacture was established the Meissen porcelain was already famous for its fine quality and perfection, and even to-day is surpassed in but very few points. Like the foundation of all German porcelain factories, with the exception of a few that are located in Thuringia, the Berlin factory owes its origin to a breach of confidence against the Meissen establishment. A foreman employed in that factory by name of Meissel clandestinely escaped from there, after having procured surreptitiously the "arcana" for the porcelain mixture. In 1710 this man Meissel founded a factory in Vienna and a certain Riegler stole the "arcana" from him. In order to guard the secret more carefully Riegler carried them constantly upon his person, but one day, while intoxicated, they were stolen from him by some of his own workmen. They copied them and sold them, and among other places they wandered to Meissen. Some of Riegler's workmen, who had in this way come into possession of the "arcana," went to Berlin, where they associated with a master-chant by name of Wegely, and the latter was the founder of the establishment which is at present the Royal Porcelain Manufacture. This was in the year 1760. Seven years later Wegely gave up the business, as it did not prove remunerative enough, despite the comparative high grade quality of his product, which was manufac-ured from the white clay of the Erzgebirge. He sold a part of his forms and stock to his foreman, Reichard, and the latter bought the "arcana" from a Saxon by the name of Paul, who no doubt came into possession of the secret also in some crooked way. Reichard's means for maintaining his factory soon gave out, and he was obliged to sell the same to a banker named Gottschowky. The latter offered high wages and great inducements to some of the workmen of the Meissen establishment in order to get them to join his project. I ascertain this latter statement because it is often erroneously held that it was Frederick the Great who brought the Meissen pattern-makers and decorators to Berlin by the force of arms. Such was not the case.

Gottschowky, too, soon failed, and the porcelain manufacture would no doubt have been abandoned had not Frederick the Great, who was a great lover of works in that line, bought the plant from the bankrupt manufacturer (on the 8th of September, 1763) for 525,000 thalers, which amount far exceeded its value. The great King availed the liveliest interest for his new enterprise. He visited the factory on the 11th of September, three days after he bought it, and invested it with many privileges. He ordered many of its products for his own use and as gifts for his friends. Among many others he presented to the Empress Catherine of Russia a dinner service with centerpiece, which, up to the present day, has never been surpassed in make or personnel of the establishment consisted at that time of 160 workmen and ran three fur-masters. It was soon in position to compete favorably with other European manufactures, and, by reason of the continued excellency of its productions, enjoyed not only the extraordinary favor of Frederick the Great but also that of his successors on the royal throne of Prussia and to-day boasts of the special good will of Emperor William II.

During the invasion of Napoleon the royal institute saw hard times, and while it was permitted to carry on its work it was compelled to pay to the Corsican conqueror the sum of 15,000 thalers. Besides furnishing the French nobility with all kinds of its wares, the table service alone which Emperor Josephine ordered was a marvel of decorative art and several single articles among it cost as high as 15,000 thalers apiece. Despite these temporary hardships the establishment developed in a remarkable manner and to-day stands higher than any other in regard to the quality of its product, surpassing even the Chinese and Japanese wares of this kind. The manufacture changed its original location in 1871 and employs to-day 350 workmen and fifteen officers.

From the city railway station, "Interlaken," the visitor wanders his way along Vegely street, between lovely gardens and solitary villas, until he comes to a group of large buildings; several canals cut through them, facilitating the shipping of the goods. He enters the main canal and through an immense gateway and finds to the right an enormous building, which contains the studios of the artists, the drawing rooms, pattern-makers, molders, draughtsmen, decorators, and painters. On the ground floor the offices of the superintendent and director are situated, while in the second story was the studio of the art director, Alex. Kips.

Across the bridge, which spans the main canal, a long line of sheds have been erected, which contain the so-called BOX-CLAY, or "capacities" and the porcelain earth proper. The former, a grey, coarse, granular substance is used for the manufacture of the fire-proof boxes, in which the porcelain is exposed to the heat of the furnace. The porcelain earth (kaolin) comes from the mines of Halle, A. S., which belong to the plant; its color is a snowy white, and when ground it resembles the finest of powder. The kaolin is subjected to a number of processes, which one and all aim at the same end, i. e., to clear it thoroughly from sand, dust and other impurities, and to withdraw from it afterwards the water and air bubbles, which the kaolin has absorbed during the washing process. After the cleaning procedure the thin, fine kaolin nap is thickened to a certain degree of moisture (degree of consistence), and then there is added to it a carefully measured quantity of finely ground feldspar, which looks almost dry, like a fine further proceeding, such as pressing through fine sieves and filters, repeated cutting by means of a wire (not a knife) and renewed forming into lumps of about 10 lbs. All this is intended to drive the air out, and now the mass resembles a rich potter's clay of a light, blue-gray color and of the thickness of stiff bread-dough. The material is ready to be worked.

To-day there is no "arcana," which is added at this juncture and which represents the secret of porcelain-making.

The mass is worked in different ways, according to the article which is to be made from it. One is the casting process, which is employed in the manufacture of figures and busts.

Another process, by which all our plates and dishes and annually hundreds of thousands of porcelain insulators for our telegraph poles are made, is the potter's wheel. On this the potter's mass is treated like ordinary potter's clay.

The making of porcelain flowers belongs to the most interesting processes in this factory. They are usually made by hand, with the help of little wooden sticks and pinchers. During one of my visits to this institution I saw them make an exquisite water rose of white and yellow color and a Marseilles Niel rose; the latter was finished inside of ten minutes by the deft and clever hands of an artist.

articles after they are formed, i. e., after the casting. We will take a pretty, delicate cake-plate, which is composed of several grapevine leaves. The spaces between the leaves are of 1.50 deg. C., but this is not the important quality, which makes the process of glazing possible. The glazing-stock is a very thin pap, which contains a water, finely ground and powdered pieces of "shard," arsenaceous quartz, kaolin and malle. The plate is quickly drawn through this watery mass, of which it absorbs a little. At the same time it is covered with a white, four-like coating, which looks almost dry, like the glazing substance. After this the plate is put with many of its kind into the clay capsules, which I have mentioned above, and wanders to the furnaces—that is, if its color is to be white and unglazed. There it is placed in one of the chambers of the immense furnaces and exposed to a temperature of from 1,500 to 1,600 C., and remains in this oven for the space of twelve hours. Then it is taken out and after cooling off is burnt once more to insure perfect smoothness.

The powerful system of these high temperature furnaces is very interesting to even a layman, who as a rule knows little of such things. These furnaces have 21 chambers, which lie side by side and are heated by burning gas. The spaces which their porcelain contents are placed in these chambers in such a manner that the gases can reach all parts of the capsules and heat them equally. When the chamber is filled, it is closed up, after some small pieces of "shard" have been placed about in such a manner that they can be easily taken out with iron tongs through little apertures provided with colored glass doors. Besides these several dark red cones, two or three inches high and consisting principally of quartz, are placed inside the chamber for the purpose of measuring the temperature. When they are melted down the heat has reached the necessary degree for burning or re-burning the porcelain. The small "shard" pieces are taken out at regular intervals and placed upon a box which contains a time-table or gauge for burning porcelain. When the samples are cooled off the burning process and its result can be watched piece by piece. Besides these giant, maximum furnaces, there are the so-called "muffle furnaces." These are in the SHAPE OF A BAKE-OVEN. Here we have arrived at a point of the porcelain technique which embraces the most remarkable and difficult procedures. This color decoration is remarkable by reason of the fact that it is based upon pure calculation. The firing and shading must be determined upon by micrometry (the science of chamlost equivalents) until experience makes this unnecessary. To illustrate: Where gold edging and decorations are to appear on a cup a substance is spread upon it which is brown in color and coarsely in appearance, and not at all like the pretty gold rim which we see afterwards. Other colors compare proportionally with this case. There is a scale of colors, with which only the lesser temperature of the muffle-furnace agrees, like that of the enamel, for example; other colors attain to the high temperature of the large furnaces. These latter colors are painted upon the "shard" after it has received its first heating; then they are dipped into the glazing-stock, which covers the little completely, and only the burning process brings them out. The "muffle-colors" are applied after the article in question has been glazed. Then the ware is burnt with the coloring in the muffle at about 800 temperature.

The artist of the Royal porcelain factory are lately engaged upon painting pictures on large porcelain plates. There are quite a number of these artists under the leadership of Director Kips, who himself is a painter of great renown. How earnestly the Royal factory is in its desire for constant progress and perfection is evidenced by the fact that on the days in the week these artists do not work for the establishment, but devote their time to paintings from nature. In the studios in my visits to this institution I saw the magnificent bouquets of natural flowers are placed on these days, and they are grown expressly for this purpose in the large hot-houses and gardens which belong to the plant.

THE FACTORY has a large sample room on the Leipzigerstrasse, and in its immense show-windows can be seen the most wonderful articles, which can be constructed of porcelain. There is a plate six feet high and five feet wide, it is destined to grace the wall of one of the magnificent, luxurious ocean steamers and represents an Italian city, which nestles against a rock. It is perfect in appearance, and so true to nature in its coloring that at a distance of a few feet one imagines to be standing at an open window and looking out upon a far-away picturequely situated town. Close by stands an enormous vase, decorated with a finely executed shepherd idyl in a Watteau. Above this hangs a chandelier arranged for electric lighting. It is composed of delicate porcelain flowers and bunches of leaves and garlands of softest, finest tulle.

Piece after piece attests to the remarkable ingenuity and excellence of workmanship of this institution and owe their existence to the extraordinary talent of its leaders. There is a service, for instance, of a black color, with a greenish cast, which color has only lately been perfected. Landscapes painted with delicate touches, etc., reveal a softness of tinting peculiar only to majolica wares. Director Dr. Helmecke has invented a part of this delicate color, the "craquelé," which has so far been confined to the East African porcelain.

The secret porcelain of the Royal factory, named after its inventor, Dr. Seger, is equal in quality and coloring to the best Japanese product. It is distinguished from the ordinary hard porcelain by its yellow color, resembling the ivory tint, and is very transparent. The Royal porcelain factory of Berlin is well worth visiting and is one of the most interesting establishments of that rich and prosperous city.

The only diamond model awarded for an artistic photograph was received by Geisler.
